

To FCC regarding proceeding 01-184

Possibility of delaying, LNP requirement for wireless carrier by FCC, is very unfortunate. I'm not happy with my wireless carrier, but I have a phone number that I have given out to many of my clients. Changing that number could drastically affect my business if my clients can't contact me.

I travel a lot, and I would rather go with a phone company that provides me cheaper rates at the locations I travel to. However, I can't do that because of nonavailability of LNP in wireless.

I am in the wireless industry, and I don't see any technical or logical reason why wireless carriers should be allowed more time for this. It seems like there is tremendous lobbying going on by the giant wireless providers which hurts common consumers.

Sincerely,
Harneet S. Gill
